

Our philosophy

At Nurtured at Home children are our first priority.

We offer children and families high quality learning environments in a safe and nurturing home setting. We recognise that children learn best through play, and empower each child to explore and participate at their own pace.

Educators are supported by qualified, experienced Early Childhood Teachers to ensure that learning experiences challenge children's skills, knowledge and interests, and these opportunities are not limited by gender, ethnicity, culture, ability or background.

We actively seek opportunities to form responsive and reciprocal relationships with children, families and whānau. We embrace families and the wider community as a whole celebrating their diversity and all they contribute to our learning rich environment.
